

Proactively identifying & correcting underlying noncompliance causes

EnSafe Inc.'s environmental, health, and safety (EHS) compliance audits are comprehensive in assessing your facility's compliance with applicable national, state, and local regulations. We assess current operating practices, determine applicable regulatory requirements, evaluate compliance with existing permits, and identify areas of noncompliance with all relevant environmental regulations. Our experts have provided multi-regulatory services across 45 states and 10 U.S. Environmental Protection Agency regions, often under attorney-client privilege. The environmental component of our audits typically evaluates solid and hazardous waste management/disposal activities, wastewater generation and discharge, storm water discharge, air sources and emissions, oil and chemical storage, and emergency planning, depending on the client's scope and specific facility type. The H&S component of our audits identifies activities and conditions that could be construed as non-compliant with Occupational Safety and Health Administration regulations outlined in 29 CFR 1910.
